

The Younger Set

RISE OF NEW LITHUANIA

Moreover, it was declared that the university of Vilnius, which the Poles pretended to regard as a Polish institution, was actually Lithuanian. Founded in the capital of the Grand Duchy of Lithuania, the university of Vilnius wished to become again Lithuanian while representing the rights of national minorities.

Lithuanian conferences succeeded each other almost uninterruptedly. That held at The Hague from April 25 to 30 had considerable importance; the resolutions there adopted have the value of a programme of action. The representatives of the Lithuanian people declared that Lithuania, after having escaped from Russian domination, did not wish to exchange its reconquered independence for a fresh yoke. This resolution was based upon the following considerations:

1. Russia oppressed Lithuania during one hundred and twenty years (since 1795); had despoiled her of her name and in lieu thereof had given her the style of "Northwest Russia".

2. The national administration and the Lithuanian Statute have been set aside and in their stead foreign institutions have been imposed upon the country.

3. The Russian Government has suppressed the university of Vilnius (1231), closed the schools, and persecuted the Lithuanian language and literature.

4. The Russian Government has done great damage also to the Catholic Church; in persecuting Catholics it has not recoiled before the spilling of blood.

5. Under barbarous governors (Muraviev the Hangman, for example) the country has suffered a setback of half a century at least in the development of its civilization.

6. The forty year's prohibition of printing (1864—1904) grievously injured the country, notwithstanding which the intellectual level is higher than in Russia (62 per cent. of the population can read and write, whereas the proportion in Russia is 29 per cent.).

7. Besides the robbery of her culture Lithuania has also to endure that of her soil which the Lithuanians by their labours of several centuries have rendered fertile.

8. Since the beginning of the War some hundreds of thousands of Lithuanians have fought in the Russian army; despite this, Russia has not promised to the Lithuanians the political autonomy which she has accorded to the Poles.

9. During their retreat the Russian troops massacred young and old in the country and carried off thousands of Lithuanians.

At this time two different opinions were entertained by Lithuanians regarding the future of their country. One party desired an autonomous Lithuania under a Russian protectorate, whereas the other and the more numerous, demanded complete independence.

In the long run the latter won the day. To promote their object all the political parties of Lithuania and of the Lithuanian colonies abroad created a High National Council upon which devolved the duty of representing the Lithuanian people in all matters concerning the country. This Council chose Switzerland as its domicile so as to enjoy the necessary freedom for the exercise of its activities, which soon became greatly extended. For some time previously there had existed at Paris a Lithuanian Bureau of Information which was now transferred to Lausanne, where it entered upon a new sphere of usefulness.

From Our Reader

The Younger Set,
Dear Friends:

While reading The Younger Set, I've come across the article written by Miss Wiltrakis, of Shelton, Conn.

She certainly is right in saying that the secretaries of different organizations should write something about the activities of their particular societies, clubs, etc.

Acting on Miss Wiltrakis' suggestion I will start about the organization of which I am corresponding secretary.

This organization is known throughout the whole world among Lithuanians, although its main base of operations is here in the United States.

The name of this organization is Lithuanian Alliance of America, in Lithuania it is called Susivienijimas Lietuvių Amerikoje. It is commonly referred to by its Lithuanian initials, S. L. A.

F. J. Zuris,
