JENKS WAS

TOO GENERAL

His Bedford Speech of Acceptance Was a Chilling Disappointment.

NOT ONE WORD ABOUT QUAY.

Generally Received as the Over Cun-ing Utterance of a Shrew Lawyer, Who Realizes That the Facts Are Overwhelmingly Against him, and So Indulges in Generalities Which Do Not Even Glitter, Let Alone Hurt—His Speech Analyzed. (Special Correspondence.)

Philadelphia, Aug. 23.—Candidate George A. Jenks' speech at Bedford, concerning the Democratic nomination for governor, has decidedly fallen flat.

As a keynote of an aggressive campaign, it is a note that has already gone to protest. Of course everybody knows that Republican deer in Pennsylvania will be commanded by Democratic votes. None but Republicans can defeat Republican candidates in this state, and a Democratic candidate, at the beginning of a hopeful candidacy, must somehow appeal to a certain element of the dominant party.

Colonel Stone represents a party that stands pledged to the maintenance of our present protective system, which affords fair and ample relief to America's labor. It calls for a law to meet all the demands of the people; which is at all times able to protect the gold reserve in the national treasury and which does not compel the government to sell its bonds by the hundreds of millions to pay off instant resentment, because it was simply a reiteration in mere terms of an old charge that had been passed over and forgotten, and said nothing specific, and nothing person-ly offensive, against Senator Quay.

The dissatisfied elements among Republicans here, however, feel it safe, while they are disappointed ambitions of men to whom the very name of any successful Republican leader is as red rag to a bull, hailed the speech with instant resentment, because it was simply a reiteration in mere terms of an old charge that had been passed over and forgotten, and said nothing specific, and nothing person-ly offensive, against Senator Quay.

While they were sore and disappointed, straight backed Republicans were pleased that even so skillful a speaker could not find time to say a word in defense of his party.

A prominent public man from the northwestern part of the state put the feeling very pointedly in the following words:

"I have read Mr. Jenks' speech of acceptance with much interest. Even if it had been directed to the campaign, he would have been interested, because his reputation as an adroit and skillful lawyer, cunning before a jury in making the best possible plea in the face of adverse evidence, is celebrated wherever he is known. But he did not say a word in defense of his reputation, but skillfully avoids specific statements. The word 'Democratic' does not appear in it at all, and the word 'Republican' only once, and to one who reads it without thinking the impression might be conveyed that both these parties had in some miraculous manner been swept beyond the borders of the state.

"The fatal weakness of his speech is not in the pleader, but in the case. He probably put it as shrewdly as possible, but the master of language is forced to appear as the hopeless spokesman of a party which has no record in public affairs to point to, and a record in national affairs which it is compelled to point away from, he is at a great disadvantage.

"The list of Mr. Jenks' speech is the special plan that it is quite consistent for anybody to vote for him and his associate Democrat candidates upon the state ticket and for the same to vote for Republicans at the same time. If this were true, and indeed, of course, it is, then he should be allowed to vote one way for members of the one branch of congress and vote the opposite way for members of the other, especially when the United States Senate is as close as it is now.

"This theory, that the record and political parties can be conveniently hung up behind the door, the meaning of the vote this year forgotten, and the campaign narrowed down to a pronounced guerrilla conflict, will not, however, be realized, because the people have decided that the strongest pro-slavery party in the country had renounced its own principles, and that the theories of William J. Bryan to the facts, logic and sound principles of William McKinley, who today is the most respected, the most honored and beloved citizen of the republic."

Colonel Stone's speech is the special plan that it is quite consistent for anybody to vote for him and his associate Democrat candidates upon the state ticket and for the same to vote for Republicans at the same time. If this were true, and indeed, of course, it is, then he should be allowed to vote one way for members of the one branch of congress and vote the opposite way for members of the other, especially when the United States Senate is as close as it is now.

"The list of Mr. Jenks' speech is the special plan that it is quite consistent for anybody to vote for him and his associate Democrat candidates upon the state ticket and for the same to vote for Republicans at the same time. If this were true, and indeed, of course, it is, then he should be allowed to vote one way for members of the one branch of congress and vote the opposite way for members of the other, especially when the United States Senate is as close as it is now.
